

From left: Belmont University College of Law, Lincoln Memorial University Duncan School of Law, University of Memphis Cecil C. Humphreys School of Law, Nashville School of Law, University of Tennessee College of Law and Vanderbilt Law School.

Last fall, The Law Launch Project began following 15 members of the Class of 2014 as they wrap up law school and prepare to be lawyers. Let's check in on what they're saying.

Read more at <http://tbalawlaunch.wordpress.com>

The focus now is to pass the Bar exam

PASS IT and they call me a lawyer.
FAIL IT and they tell me better luck next time (Ouch!).

I LIKE TO BELIEVE that their firms involve considering not only whether applicants can do the jobs but also whether the jobs will be good ones for those young lawyers.

The end of the tunnel is drawing near, and other than I am surrounded by extraordinary people. We just finished what we hope are the last law school midterms we will a quick roadblock called the bar, ever have to take. And boy are we glad that mess is over. life as a lawyer waits on the other side.

My twenty years of education is coming to an end. One thing that I've enjoyed about my final year has been an opportunity to read books that don't appear on a syllabus.

What's on your list?

Law Office Management Course: The professor is doing a great job at teaching and scaring those wanting to start out of their own.